

Industry Insight

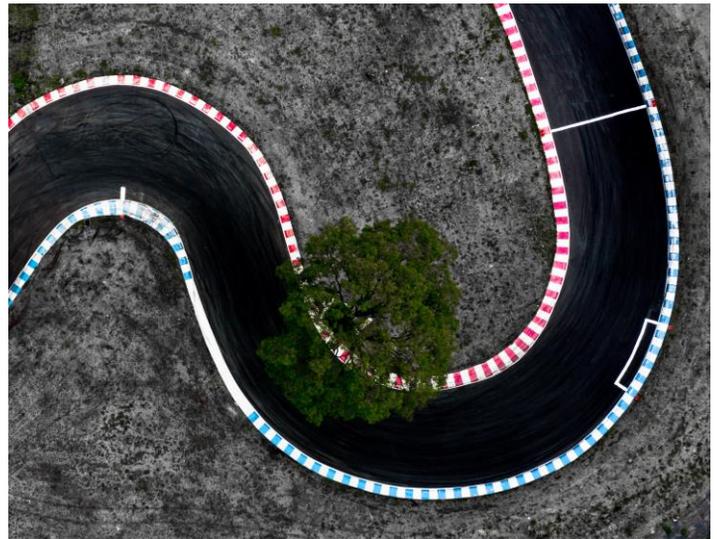

S/4HANA is the next step for organizations planning to move towards the 'digital enterprise'. A migration to S/4HANA must be made sooner than later (support for ECC ends in 2027), and a timely evaluation of your SAP roadmap is the logical first step.

The key theme for S/4HANA is to address how this new digital platform can help organizations attain more value out of their ERP landscape; both from a cost savings perspective as well as the contribution that will ensure the success of your business strategy.

Our Approach

truData's approach provides a proven method to enable structured decision-making around your S/4HANA strategy and roadmap. Based upon truData's industry Leading Practices, our approach covers both 'Strategy' and 'Conceptual Design';

- Business & technology objective
- Alignment of process/application inventory to the objectives
- Assessment of business value vs technology direction
- Technology and process maturity alignment
- Deployment models, cost and risk profiling of options
- Detailed conceptual design of transition and target state, sequencing of events needed to reach target state

Deliverables

truData's S/4HANA Strategy engagement comprises a four to six week effort, culminating in a presentation to Stakeholder's detailing the following;

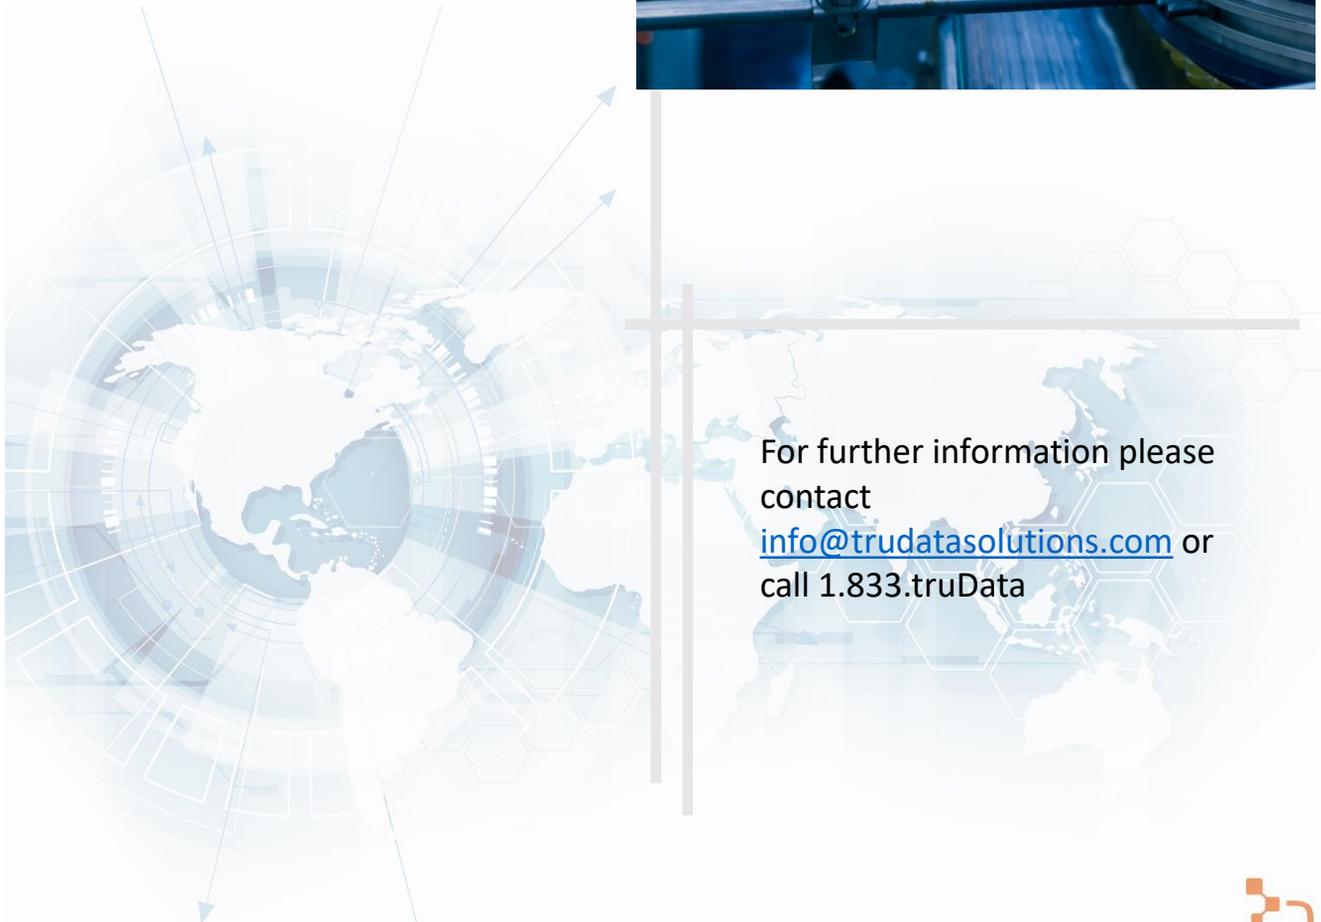

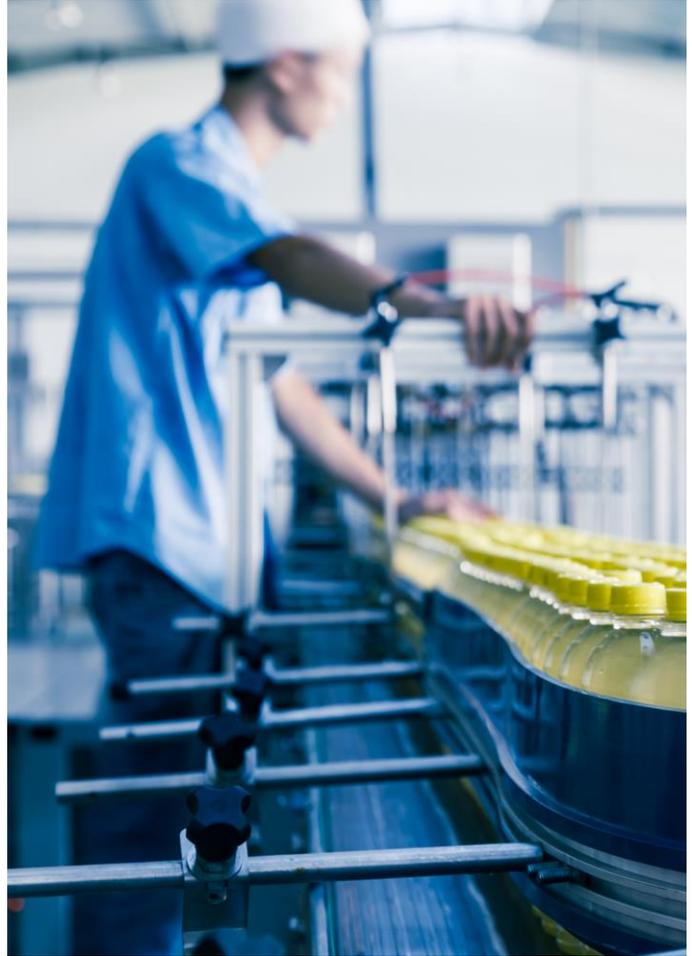

- Alignment of objectives to the current and future state
- Migration approach based on objectives and feasibility for company
- Design of transitional and target state
- SAP's assessment of your current inventory aligned with their roadmap
- Program roadmap, options available, risks, cost considerations and sequencing of events

"truData's depth of leading practices instilled in our business the confidence to align with the S/4HANA strategy and be fully supportive of our program roadmap".
